

Tea of geography

Nikoloz Kapanadze

Email: Nikoloz.Kapanadze691@ens.tsu.edu.ge

Department of Geography, Faculty of Exact and Natural Sciences, Iv.Javakhishvili Tbilisi State University, 0179, Tbilisi, I.Chavchavadze #3

tea represents product group which has large quantity and different kind of customers. tea production has a very big potential in our country, that's why it's important to develop it. adopting along a primary market it's very necessary to increase export of tea, which will have a positive affect on countrys economic condition.the reason of previous work is to state regullarity of cause full connections, studying customer's dependences. this work contains introduction, 6 chapters, conclusions and recommendations.

Working encloses appendix and 10kind of literary source. in the previous work's introduction there is introduced history, goals of research, tasks, subject and object of the given topic. in the second part of given topic there is discussed different kind of tea and it's benefital features which is spread worldwide, also areas of spreading in the world. in the last part of the working is given historical reports, present condition of tea production and perspectives of tea production.